NUMBER 32.

VOTE THE DEMOCRATIC TICKET FROM "END TO END."

AN APPEAL

To the Voters of the Tenth Congressional District.

Office Democratic Campaign Committee
100 10th Congressional District,
Winchester, Ky., October 24, 1894.

Dear Sir:

As the election approaches we desire to appeal to the Democratic voters of the Tenth district to do their whole duty to the Democratic nominees, Beckner and Kendall. The battle is on between the two political parties, and this is no time for a Democrat to falter.

WHY SHOULD DEMOCRACY PREVAIL?

If you will recall the platform of the Chicago convention, on which the Democrats won their magnificent victory in 1892, and then examine the work of the last congress, you will see that to an extent never before known in the history of this country the pledges made by a political party before the election have been faithfully redeemed after the election.

THOSE PLEDGES WERE:

1. To repeal the Sherman act, the Republican measure which was the direct cause of the financial panic of 1893.
2. To repeal the Federal election law, a Republican measure which enabled the Federal judiciary to control your elections.

4. To repeal the McKinley bill, a Republican measure enacted in the interests of the manufacturers, and to pass in its stead a bill which would relieve the necessities of life from the burden of taxation and enable the country to return to a tariff for revenue only.

The first thing the Democratic congress did was to repeal the Sherman act, then to repeal the Federal election law; then, notwithstanding an appropriation of eleven million dollars for the improvement of rivers and harbors, and a most liberal allowance for pensions, the Democratic party, by the removal of 600 holders of useless offices, and retrenchment in the expenses of the departments at Washington, has secured an annual saving to the people of twenty-nine million dollars; and then the McKinley bill has been repealed and the Wilson bill substituted for it, whereby the necessities of life have been made cheaper and the expenses of the government are gathered from luxuries which only the rich enjoy. The Wilson bill is 10 per cent better than the Mills bill, which was expressly endorsed by the Democratic convention which nominated Grover Cleveland, and it has reduced the public burden $585,000,000 below that burden which the McKinley bill placed upon the people. Is it good sense or good policy to retire the party which has been so faithful and so true to its promises?

The Democratic administration, recognizing the soundness of the proposition that each citizen ought to contribute to the support of the government according to his wealth rather than according to what he buys, has passed an Income Tax bill, which requires all persons and corporations having an income in excess of $4,000 to pay two per cent of the excess for the support of the government.

In a total population of sixty millions there are 25,000 persons in the United States who own fortunes ranging from $500,000 to $20,000,000 each, making a total of more than half the wealth of the entire country, and to require them to pay more than those who own only what they earn by their daily labor, is a most just and equitable requirement. It is strictly Democratic. Don't be scared by the "Calamity Howlers." The hard times of 1892 and 1893 were bred by Republican legislation, the effects of which even a change of administration could not avoid at once, but since the passage of the Democratic tariff bill business all over the country has revived, and a change in the political complexion of the next congress can only result in demoralizing business and retarding the prosperity of the land. Upon the result of the election in the Tenth district may depend the question whether President Cleveland will be supported by a Democratic congress, or hampered by a Republican house determined to turn back the Republican rule and class legislation.

The Democratic party favors economy, low taxes, immediate responsibility in the event of war, Federal interference with local law. If you want these, vote for Beckner and Kendall, who stand on that platform and urge your neighbors to vote with you.

The Republican party favors sectionalism, high government, heavy taxes, exorbitant protection and Federal interference with local rule and control of local elections. If you favor such doctrine vote for Bosley and Hopkins.

"Choose your this day whom ye will serve."

Beckner and Kendall are men of legislative experience and established ability, and both are friends of silver, while their Republican opponents, like their party, are wedded to a gold standard.

For these considerations, and others which could be given, we earnestly urge you to rally to the support of your party's candidates, encourage your neighbors and see that every Democratic voter is gotten to the polls. Confidently expecting a handsome victory, we are,

Fraternally yours,
J. M. BENTON, Chairman
Campaign Committee 10th Cong. Dist.
E. S. JOHNETT, Secretary.

CAMPAIGN SONG.

BY DREAMER.

The elector's day is bright;
Men are talking,
Men are walking,
And Democracy is the cry.

The elector's day is bright;
Men are talking,
Men are walking,
And Democracy is the cry.

From sea to sea and earth to sky
The noise is heard,
As you do know,
And old Democracy is the cry.

Away the eagle doth fly
From hill to hill,
He can't keep still—
For Democracy is the cry.

The Repubs are getting shy;
Men's hearts do fear,
And I don't care,
For Democracy is the cry.

Good times cannot steal or lie;
This you admit,
And don't forget,
For Democracy is the cry.

Men may grieve, complain and try
To gain this still,
Against their will—
For Democracy is the cry.

As you live and have to die,
With me you see,
And can agree,
And say Repubs, good bye, good bye.

You may grout, groan, weep and sigh,
And hear the call
That makes tears fall—
But Democracy is the cry.

You may eat dumplings and pie
And smack your mouth
Back to the South—
For Democracy is the cry.

The truth is told in reply,
To every mind
That is lined—
And Democracy is the cry.

In the soul, heart, mind and eye
I hear them say:
O, stop to-day!
For Democracy is the cry.

Repubs are sad-looking dry,
For all good things
Most surely rhyme
In a Democratic cry.

On good deeds we can rely—
Says the old goose,
We are not loose,
For Democracy is the cry.

Our country may vote a tie;
For some weak knee
May act the flea,
And bolt the Democracy cry.

Such an one will tell a lie,
And act the dog,
And be a hog—
So away with you—bye, bye.

For a pain in the side or chest there is nothing so good as a piece of flannel dampened with Chamberlain's Pain Balm and bound over the seat of the pain. It affords prompt and permanent relief, and if used in time will often prevent a cold from resulting in pneumonia. This same treatment is a sure cure for lame back. For sale by John M. Rose.

A few good bacon hams wanted at this office, for which we will pay 10 cents a pound.

MORGAN COUNTY.

Maytown Missiles.

Little Carl May is no better.
A. C. Swango is on the sick list, but is better to-day.

Miss Liza Henry, of Ezel, is visiting Miss Rose Sample.

Elder Dungan has rented Mr. Reynolds' property and moved into it.

Miss Rosa Kash is quite sick at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Swango.

Miss Hada Childers is improving slowly. Hope she will soon be up again.

Esquire Burgess told the people a speech which he should or ought to be the next county judge.

R. A. Childers has returned home from Kansas and reports a pleasant trip. He does not like the country, and says a home on Tar ridge would be preferable to a home in Kansas.

The Maytown mill company made a strike over a week ago and matters have not been adjusted yet. It was not on account of the Wilson tariff bill, but for the lack of water.

While at Ezel on Saturday last we had the pleasure of listening to your fellow townsman and gifted young orator, Mr. Henry L. Godsey, discuss the political issues of the day. He is an excellent speaker, and we predict a bright future for him.

Elder Hopkins, candidate for congress, running a long way behind our Joe, preached here Tuesday night, the 23rd ult., to a crowded house. He says, and we coincide with him, that he was called to preach the gospel, and why does he not stick to his calling and leave politics alone? We have never known a minister of the gospel who bettered his condition either financially or morally by entering the political arena. Rev. J. J. Adams was with Elder Hopkins here.

Captain Broas and W. W. McGuire satisfied all reasonable thinking men, that would be convinced at all, that the small amount asked for Morgan county to help construct the railroad bridges would make Morgan county what she never could expect to be without a railroad. But to think we will call a court, invite all the good people of the community to come and sit as jurors to try a certain cause, etc., and when the witness takes the stand for a number of those jurors to leave the court room without hearing the witness testify, and be able to give a verdict as long as your arm, would be a mystery to a wooden man. Deliver us from the clutches of a jury that condemns me before they hear the evidence! If we had plenty of money and cared nothing for the welfare of our county, nor the rising generation, I guess we would vote against the tax and let the poor man continue to hew wood and draw water. One excuse offered against the tax is that farm labor would cost $1.50 a day. That will very likely be true, but that would be better for the laboring class, which includes most of us. We have seen for ourselves facts and figures, compiled from official records by one whose interests are identified with ours, and no man who knows W. W. McGuire would say that money or anything else would induce him to advise his county people to do anything that would be detrimental to their interests. While I live my prayer shall ever be that when our old fogies are dead and gone that our children may have the spirit of improvement and move ahead as we could do now if we only would. Here is the chance of a lifetime. Let us make it our chance. I am for the bridge tax, sink or swim, survive or perish.

WINGLESS.

Ezel Evolutions.

A man was recently heard to say:

"Some men preach for money, some for provisions and some for votes." Now, while I am a stickler for strictly moral officials, I think it is a shameful extreme for a man to try to preach himself into congress as the Rev. Hopkins is endeavoring to do. If this is his only qualification he has no business in congress, but should live himself entirely to the work. I have never seen the man and know nothing of him except the record which he is making, and everybody in this congressional district knows that his purpose in preaching all over the country, in most parts of which he was never seen or heard of before, and never will be again after the election, is for the sole purpose of influencing people to vote for him. It is a shame on his church and his party for him to use religion only as campaign material, and if he knows nothing of politics, or is ashamed to advocate the claims of his party, then it ought not to support him, and of course no Democrat would think of voting for him. After this election he can add another item to his "experience," which will be that a man should preach the gospel for the salvation of souls and not for political gain; also that a man to be sent to congress should be qualified to meet the great issues of the day.

Henry L. Godsey made one of his matchless Democratic speeches at this place last Saturday. With undeniable facts, and in a convincing way, he showed the great prosperity that is following Democratic legislation. He showed that instead of free wool ruining the sheep and wool trade of the country, as predicted by Republicans, wool has advanced from 16 to 23 cents, and sheep that last year sold for $1.50 per head, cannot now be bought for less than $3.00. It was then that I remembered of being at Campton not long since and hearing a self-important Republican from the bluegrass make a speech in which he stated that sheep could then be bought in Texas for one dollar per dozen as a result of free wool. He told that for the truth, and said that he was not there to tell jokes and campaign lies. Some Wolfe county Republicans were doing their best to believe his story, but I guess by this time they have given it up.

Mr. Broas and W. W. McGuire also filled their appointments here last Saturday, speaking on the railroad question. They were very much discouraged by finding so much opposition in the county against the tax, and Mr. Broas said that the prospects of the road being constructed now was indeed very slim, and most every one that heard them speak here are now satisfied that if the tax is not voted that the road will not be built now. It does seem to me that our people cannot afford to miss this opportunity of getting a railroad.

It is said by some that the interest on the bonds will "eat us up," but a little study would satisfy any one of the foolishness of such a statement. The interest on the bonds would be $1,500 a year. Now the road alone only lacks $44 of paying this interest every year. Satisfy yourself of this by counting twenty six miles of railroad in the county at $15,000 per mile, making $416,000. Then a levy of 35c. ad valorem brings us $14.56. Now, as this levy is made every year, and the interest is to be paid every six months, don't you see that the interest cannot accumulate. That being true, don't anybody know that Morgan county can pay the principal any road will not be built now. It does seem to me that our people cannot afford to miss this opportunity of getting a railroad.

A. H. Burgess, independent candidate for judge in this county, was also on the stump at this place last Saturday. He makes some things which are connected with O. J. McKenzie's previous administration look real ugly. During that time there was several thousand dollars of public money misappropriated, or at least there is nothing to show for it, and our people are somewhat bothered about the matter. There is also a great deal being said about his bottle and couching; and if all these reports be true, how in the name of God can the christian and moral people of this county afford to vote for him?

If some of our people are not careful they will be caught in a lie. Not long since quite a number of voters in this county, of their own free will and accord, signed a pledge that they would not vote for any man to fill a county office who used liquor or money to secure his election. Who was it that had whiskey shipped to this county by the barrel, and had his sheep roasts (which cost money) to secure his nomination in the primary? I think it is time for people to think two or three times before they vote once.

Mrs. Minnie Hale is visiting her father, J. S. Nickell. She will return to her future home in West Virginia in a short time.

Kelly Nickell, who went west some time ago, returned last week.

Dr. A. B. Nickell recently sold his property in town to Steve Pieratt, and for the present has rented the W. J. Prater property and moved to it last week.

George Cox, Jr., was last Saturday adjudged insane and will be sent to the asylum soon. George was until recently a very promising young man, and had been married only about two years. His condition is a shock to his many friends.

EASTERN AND CENTRAL KENTUCKY.

Wealth Invited for Those Who Will Labor and Economize.

The question of immigration has for years been a field of thought, and upon this question the nation's greatest minds are divided.

On one point, however, we are agreed; that the slums and refugees from foreign countries should not be admitted to our shores, but those of honest toil who seek our country for their betterment, there is a welcome, and our lands and resources should be placed before them in no over-drawn picture.

Montgomery county is the capital, the distributing point to and dumping ground for what is known as the mountains of Eastern Kentucky. At least two-thirds of its lands are rich and fertile; soil deep, with the capacity of withstanding protracted droughts.

The other one-third, while not so rich, is mostly productive, and contains much valuable timber and opens up rare possibilities for skilled fruit growers and vineyardists. Railroad facilities and turnpike roads are far above the average.

Improvements are extra, citizens kind, ambitious, energetic and hospitable. School houses and churches adorn every neighborhood, and refinement culture and piety characterize the better grades of society.

In short, this is an Eden spot. The principal agricultural products are hemp, tobacco—more white burley is shipped from this point than from any other in the State—wheat, corn, rye, oats, barley, large and small fruits, potatoes and all varieties of vegetables—the onion growing to perfection and of large size—bluegrass, timothy, clover, herds grass, orchard grass, in fact all the grasses have a large growth here, and horses, mules, cattle, sheep and hogs are of the highest breeds and are numerous on every farm. So it can readily be observed that he who works in Montgomery county gathers profitable results.

Farm lands range from $15 to $150 per acre, owing to quality of soil and improvements. There is labor for any number of hands, at good wages; lands can be leased on good terms or purchased at reasonable prices, and rest assured all good citizens receive a hearty welcome; but there is a feature which by reason of locality belongs to this county which is a great feeder.

The rich coal fields of Eastern Kentucky, fine uncultured forests of hard and soft timbers are at our very doors, all of which find a market here. Menefee, Carter, Morgan, Elliott, Wolfe, Magoffin, Floyd, Breathitt and Powell counties unlap their store houses of wealth here and draw their supplies from this section. Morgan county has the largest acreage and finest camel coal known to the world, which will be in the market at an early day.

The counties above named also have considerable farming lands, rich and productive, which can be purchased for from $5 per acre upward, and the K. & S. A. railroad will doubtless penetrate this section at no distant day.

These counties raise a high grade of tobacco, all kinds of fruit, and the largest and best Irish and sweet potatoes, etc.

The stock market of Montgomery draws largely from this section, and eggs and poultry is a source of much revenue. The past few years there has been a large influx of immigrants, the most of whom are satisfied and are making money. The attention of immigrants is on this section, and no wonder, because much is offered.—Correspondence Louisville Post.

It Was a Revelation to Him.

A leading wool manufacturer of Philadelphia, in writing to a Pittsburgh gentleman, says: "The operation of the new tariff has been a revelation to me. We are making more wools because of free wool of a better quality, are selling more goods and employing more men."

The McClellan Monument.

Gen. Kirby Smith, president of the McClellan monument association, presided at the dedication exercises in Philadelphia on Oct. 24. There were present troops from a number of states. The District of Columbia was represented by Troop A, New Jersey by the 6th regiment, New York by the 22d regiment, and Pennsylvania by the First and Second brigades. The marines from the Longue Island navy-yard and all the veteran organizations of Philadelphia and surrounding city were in line.

The exercises began at 1:30 p. m. Rev. Dr. Henry C. McCook offered prayer. The statue was presented by Maj. Veale in a brief speech. Mayor Stuart accepted the statue on behalf of the city. Gov. Pattison and Gen. Franklin both spoke. The statue was then unveiled, and a salute of seventeen guns was fired by Battery A.

At a little after 2 o'clock the line, which had been formed during the exercises, moved. The first division was made up of the Pennsylvania troops and the visiting military organizations. After these came the Grand Army of the Republic, the Sons of Veterans, the Union Veterans Legion, and a number of other veteran organizations.

The third division was composed of the cadets. No civic organizations were allowed in line, as it had been decided to make the parade a purely military one.

A Suggestion on Good Roads.

The amount of road claims annually allowed by our fiscal court is much larger than any one, not a member of the court, would suspect. There are quite a number of dirt roads in this county, each one to be worked every year. The price paid per diem is reasonable, twenty cents per hour for a two-horse team and driver. The hands summoned to work on the road receive no compensation for their labor. If the court will enter an order that no more money will be paid for the working of roads by the court and that a sum of money will be set aside every year equal to what has heretofore been expended in the working of roads, and that one of these dirt roads shall be macadamized every year and the money paid for out of this money in the course of a few years, Mercer county will have good roads, and there will be no one to complain. Let every dirt road be surveyed and named and numbered, and at every annual meeting of the fiscal court let these names be written on separate strips of paper and the slips placed in a hat, and let some one, say the county attorney, draw from the hat the name of one road, and let that one be the road that shall be macadamized the ensuing year. And let this plan continue from year to year until every county road is macadamized.—Harrodsburg Sayings.

A Remarkable Crop of Tobacco.

The Ballard Yeoman tells of a remarkable crop of tobacco that was raised in that county: "More Ireland brought to this office a few days ago some of the Burley tobacco cut from his patch of eleven acres, which beats anything ever seen in this country, or, we believe, in any other section of Kentucky. There are three monster stalks of the weed, two red and one white burley. The tallest of the stalks is six feet seven inches in length, with the others very little less. One of the stalks measured seventy-eight inches across the top leaf, and one leaf on the same stalk measured twenty-four inches in width. It is not only the extreme size of the tobacco that makes it remarkable, but it is as fine as silk in texture and color. The crop will average 1,200 pounds to the acre, and it is safe to say that it is by far the most profitable crop of eleven acres that will be raised in the 'Purchase' this year, if Mr Ireland has good luck in getting it cured up nicely."

A Bloody Fight.

A bloody encounter occurred in Madison county Sunday afternoon at Big Hill, between the Vanwinkle brothers, on one side, and John Settles and pal on the other. Link Vanwinkle was shot in the back, while his brother John received a pistol ball in his right temple. Settles and his lieutenants escaped. The Whiskey was at the bottom of the affair. No arrests had been made at last accounts.

MY FIRST COON HUNT.

BY "EIGHT-SEER."

One bright and beautiful morning While everything was adorning, I thought I would chase a coonie, But, alas! I felt very puny. I started singing diddle-odum— Very soon my dog reared an opomum Upon the hill in a hole. Which much delighted my soul. I ran very rapidly to him, And often a bush cut a limb And poked it in the hole to see How near the 'possum was to me. I joyfully got some hair, And then I had the thing so fair, That I dug some in the ground And pulled the rocks around, And soon I got to him With energy and vim, And took the 'possum by the tail— And to kill one I never fail. Oh, he was such a fine one, I was pleased with the fun. I went on singing diddle-dum-dee And hung him up in a backery tree. I heard my dog yell very long Like he smelt something very strong. I tooted as loud as I could holler, And after him, you bet, I did follow. So rapidly did I go That but little did I know; I fell and like to have broke my toe, And cried bitterly, O ho, ho, But on did my good dog leap And after him I did creep. I saw that the sign was very fresh The way my dog clipped the bush. He soon took up a hill While the birds did scold will. I heard him begin to bark so free, And saw him look up a chestnut tree. Out on a limb was the old coonie— I just tell you he looked funny. You bet it tickled me, And I laughed like, hee. And after the bird did scold will, A poor little Jack did run, And soon reached the spot, 'Cause I went in a trot. O, Louis! so freely did I cry, A coon's tree, if I had to die— Do come along with me, And kill this old coonie. Very soon did we start With great joy in heart. On reaching the tree Louis saw the coonie. He soon took on him a fine head And killed the coon, indeed. He fell down on the ground And my dog shook him 'round. I put him nicely on my back, And back home came little old Jack, And found everything all right. The coon was sleeping so bright. We thr. w our game down And gassed around. Sam Oney and pa were in the shop— I ran and told them we had coon-sop. They sniggered and laughed right, And Sam Oney traveled all night; And next morning bright and soon We were up to eat the coon. Very soon the table was spread With baked coon and corn bread; And as the best was on the top, And as the best was on the top, Milk, butter and beans, and fall salad greens, And a fine 'possum pie is good, you'll not deny. I shall never forget this time— The 'possum and coon in this rhyme. I was about fourteen, Fussy, and a little mean. This story is indeed true, What a boy can sometimes do, When you fully read this Do not think it amiss To give your lips a smack And think of little Jack.

His Loss to the Party Will Be Felt.

Bourke Cockran has declared his intention for awhile past of retiring from congress at the end of his term. His loss will be felt among the Democrats. He came strongly to the front last session in his denunciation of the senate tariff bill, and showed himself no slouch of an orator in his contest with Bryan, of Nebraska, in opposition to free silver. He has been a strong administration man throughout. The ways and means committee will lose one of its foremost members.—National Tribune.

It Was a Revelation to Him.

A leading wool manufacturer of Philadelphia, in writing to a Pittsburgh gentleman, says: "The operation of the new tariff has been a revelation to me. We are making more wools because of free wool, of a better quality, are selling more goods and employing more men."

The McClellan Monument.

Gen. Kirby Smith, president of the McClellan monument association, presided at the dedication exercises in Philadelphia on Oct. 24. There were present troops from a number of states. The District of Columbia was represented by Troop A, New Jersey by the 6th regiment, New York by the 22d regiment, and Pennsylvania by the First and Second brigades. The marines from the League Island navy-yard and all the veteran organizations of Philadelphia and surrounding city were in line.

The exercises began at 1:30 p. m. Rev. Dr. Henry C. McCook offered prayer. The statue was presented by Maj. Voale in a brief speech. Mayor Stuart accepted the statue on behalf of the city. Gov. Pattison and Gen. Franklin both spoke. The statue was then unveiled, and a salute of seventeen guns was fired by Battery A.

At a little after 2 o'clock the line, which had been formed during the exercises, moved. The first division was made up of the Pennsylvania troops and the visiting military organizations. After those came the Grand Army of the Republic, the Sons of Veterans, the Union Veteran Legion, and a number of other veteran organizations.

The third division was composed of the cadets. No civic organizations were allowed in line, as it had been decided to make the parade a purely military one.

A Suggestion on Good Roads.

The amount of road claims annually allowed by our fiscal court is much larger than any one, not a member of the court, would suspect. There are quite a number of dirt roads in this county, each one to be worked every year. The price paid per diem is reasonable, twenty cents per hour for a two-horse team and driver. The hands summoned to work on the road receive no compensation for their labor. If the court will enter an order that no more money will be paid for the working of roads by the court, and that a sum of money will be set aside every year equal to what has heretofore been expended in the working of roads, and that one of these dirt roads shall be macadamized every year and the work paid for out of this money in the course of a few years, Mercer county will have good roads, and there will be no one to complain. Let every dirt road be surveyed and numbered, and at every annual meeting of the fiscal court let those names be written on separate strips of paper and the strips placed in a hat, and let some one, say the county attorney, draw from the hat the name of one road, and let that one be the road that shall be macadamized the ensuing year. And let this plan continue from year to year until every county road is macadamized.—Harrodsburg Sayings.

A Remarkable Crop of Tobacco.

The Ballard Yeoman tells of a remarkable crop of tobacco that was raised in that county: "Mort Ireland brought to this office a few days ago some of the Burley tobacco cut from his patch of eleven acres, which beats anything ever seen in this country, or, we believe, in any other section of Kentucky. There are three monster stalks of the weed, two red and one white Burley. The tallest of the stalks is six feet seven inches in length, with the others very little less. One of the stalks measured seventy-eight inches across the top leaf, and one leaf on the same stalk measured twenty-four inches in width. It is not only the extreme size of the tobacco that makes it remarkable, but it is as fine as silk in texture and color. The crop will average 1,200 pounds to the acre, and it is safe to say that it is by far the most profitable crop of eleven acres that will be raised in the 'Purchase' this year, if Mr Ireland has good luck in getting it cured up nicely."

A Bloody Fight.

A bloody encounter occurred in Madison county Sunday afternoon at Big Hill, between the Yauwinkle brothers, on one side, and John Settles and pal on the other. Link Yauwinkle was shot in the back, while his brother John received a pistol ball in his right temple. Settles and his lieutenants escaped. Whisky was at the bottom of the affair. No arrests had been made at last accounts.

MY FIRST COON HUNT.

BY "SIGHT-SEER."

One bright and beautiful morning while everything was adorning, I thought I would chase a coon, but alas! I felt very puny. I started singing dandle-odum—Very soon my dog treed an opossum Upon the hill in a hole, Which much delighted my soul. I ran very rapidly to him, And often a bush cut a limb And poked it in the hole to see How near the 'possum was to me. I joyfully got some hair, And then I had the thing so fair, That I dug some in the ground And pulled the sticks around, And soon I got to him With energy and vim, And took the 'possum by the tail—And to kill one I never fail. Oh, he was such a fine one, I was pleased with the fun. I went on singing dandle-dum-dee And hung him up in a buckeye tree. I heard my dog yell very long Like he smelt something very strong. I tooted as loud as I could holler, And after him I did creep, I saw that the sign was very fresh The way my dog clipped the bresh. He soon took up a hill While the birds did keep still. I heard him begin to bark so free, And saw him look up a distinct tree. But on a limb was the old coon— I just tell you he looked funny. You bet it tickled me, And I laughed hee, hee. Away after the gun Poor little Jack did run, And soon reached the spot, 'Cause I went in a trot. O, Louis! so freely did I cry, A coon's treed, if I had to die—Do come along with me, And kill this old coon. Very soon I was in the heart With great joy in heart. On reaching the tree Louis saw the coon. Louis took on him a fine head And killed the coon, indeed. He fell down on the ground And my dog shook him 'round. I put him nicely on my back, And back home came little old Jack. And found everything all right. The sun was shining so bright. We were to eat the coon. And passed around. Sam Oney and pa were in the shop—I ran and told them we had coon sap. They sniggered and laughed right, And Sam Oney staved all night; And next morning bright and soon We were up to eat the coon. Very soon the table was spread With baked corn and corn bread; And as the best was on the top, We smacked our lips and eat the sop. Milk, butter and beans, and fall salad greens, And a fine 'possum pie is good, you'll not deny. I shall never forget this time—The 'possum and coon in this rhyme. My age was about fourteen, Frisky, and a little mean. But I am indeed now old, What a boy can sometimes do. When you fully read this Do not think it amiss To give your pups a smack And think of little Jack.

His Loss to the Party Will Be Felt.

Bourke Cockran has declared his intention for awhile past of retiring from congress at the end of his term. His loss will be felt among the Democrats. He came strongly to the front last session in his denunciation of the senate tariff bill, and showed himself no slouch of an orator in his contest with Bryan, of Nebraska, in opposition to free silver. He has been a strong administration man throughout. The ways and means committee will lose one of its foremost members.—National Tribune.

A Cat Without Prejudice.

J. A. Link, of Superior, Wis., has in his show window a cat and a family of young rats that she has adopted. Her kittens had been drowned, and it was found that she had killed an old rat and taken charge of her motherless rodents.

J. M. Havens, jeweler, has located in Hazel Green and will be found at the store of John M. Rose. Bring your watches and fine jewelry to him for repairs. He is a first-class workman and guarantees his work at the most reasonable prices. tt.

LOOK OUT FOR SHARKS.

Official Note of Warning From the Insurance Department of Kentucky.

Insurance Commissioner H. F. Duncan has issued the following circular:

FRANKFORT, Oct. 16, 1894.—The attention of the people of this state is hereby respectfully called to the fact that the fire insurance companies whose names are given below, which this department is advised are doing, or have sought to do, business in Kentucky through correspondence from the home office of other states, are not authorized by law to do business in this state, and the people are cautioned against placing their insurance with these companies, viz:

Cincinnati Insurance Co., Cincinnati, Ohio.

Empire State Lloyds, New York City.

Equitable Fire Lloyds, New York City.

Farmers and Merchants' Insurance Co., Alexandria, Va.

Home Insurance Co., Tennessee.

Lloyds of New York City, New York City.

Madison Insurance Co., Madison, Ind.

Manufacturers' Lloyds, New York City.

Merchants' Insurance Co., Hammond, Ind.

Merchants' Fire Lloyds, New York City.

Millers' National Insurance Co., Chicago, Ill.

Millers' Mutual Fire Insurance Association, Alton, Ill.

Mountain State Fire Insurance Co., Wheeling, West Va.

National Fire Insurance Co., Fredericksburg, Va.

New York Central Lloyds, New York City.

Norfolk Fire and Marine Insurance Co., Norfolk, Va.

North Carolina State Insurance Co., Asheville, N. C.

Old Dominion Insurance Co., Portsmouth, Va.

Philadelphia Fire Lloyds, Philadelphia, Pa.

Planters' Insurance Co., Alexandria, Va.

Provident Insurance Co., Richmond, Va.

South & North American Lloyds, New York City.

United Underwriters (Lloyds), New York City.

Washington Insurance Co., Hammond, Ind.

A majority of these companies named are of the strictly "wild cat" variety, and are wholly irresponsible. None of them being authorized to transact business in the state, they have no lawful agent or attorney in the state upon whom service of process could be had in case of a suit on a resisted loss, which would make it necessary that suit be brought in the state in which the company is located. This would place the claimant at a great disadvantage, and would give the company a club which it could be relied on to most effectively use in forcing a compromise at a heavy loss to the claimant.

The commissioner would be glad to be informed of any person representing in this state any of the companies named, so that he may take the necessary steps to have such person arrested and prosecuted.

Work for Many Men.

The Ensign car and manufacturing works, located at Huntington, West Va., which has been idle for nearly a year, have put 150 men to work. Orders are reported to be coming in with fair rapidity, and the prospects are good for doubling the present force at an early day. The shops of the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad are also working full time now, having been on half time since last January. The Huntington glass works at Central City put fire in the furnace a few days ago, and will go on full time soon. The Burlington lumber mills have also resumed in full.

Stick to Your Party.

No Democrat has any excuse for going back on a regularly constituted nominee of his party. The late Senator Beck once declared that he would vote against his own brother if that brother were opposing a Democratic nominee. There are a good many Democrats in Kentucky who might profit by this saying of Senator Beck. A Democrat who is not a Democrat at all times and under all circumstances is worth very little to his party or his country.—Winchester Democrat.

BLEACHED BONES

Of a Prospector Found on the Desert Sands of California.

The bones of another prospector have been found out on the desert sands near San Bernardino, Cal. It is not improbable that the remains are those of a man who lost his life while searching for the long lost diamond, "the Pink Diamond."

S. T. and A. T. Blair, of San Bernardino, have just returned from a summer's prospecting visit on the desert, and they made the discovery. While out on the desert, about sixteen miles east of Carson Spring, they came on the scattered bones of a man bleached white and scattered over a space of 100 yards square. Lying here and there on the sand were pieces of the dead man's wearing apparel. To one of the lapels of the coat was pinned a curiously wrought Knight Templar's badge. It is thought the bones are those of a man named Straubenmiller. He disappeared about three years ago, and nothing since has been heard of him. In May, 1891, Straubenmiller started from Cottonwood Springs to Walters, a station 25 miles distant. At the month of the Cottonwood canon, instead of going southwest, Straubenmiller turned east, and a few days later he was tracked 18 miles out on the desert, where the trail was lost and he was never seen again.

Col. Breckinridge at Jackson.

The Hon. W. C. P. Breckinridge made a speech here on Monday, Oct. 15th, to the largest crowd of Democratic men and women that ever assembled in this place on such an occasion. His speech touching the tariff and the works of the last congress was delivered in a plain, but in such an impressive way, that everybody understood it as they never did before. As they went home the creeks and hollows were made to ring with the cries "Hurrah for Breckinridge and the Democratic party." As to the article of Oct. 19th, in the Jackson Herald, it was written by a "terrified mungump," who has not been here long enough to have had two collars laundered.

The good people and the Democracy of Breathitt county as well as the committee of the county denounce the article not only as an insult to the Democracy of Breathitt county but as an insult to the entire district.

D. L. HAGGINS, Chairman Democratic County Committee.

Cheering News From the Big Sandy.

From the Sandy valley comes news that is glad tidings to the hearts and hopes of all good Democrats. The little cisms and dissatisfaction in some localities are healed up, and the old Democracy of the 10th district is united from the bluegrass to the Cumberland, and are fighting and will continue the fight until the polls close as they never fought before. The boys in the trenches have put on their war paint and are fighting from behind the breastworks, but have gone forth in the open field and are scattering the cohorts of McKinleyism and force bills to all points of the compass. The election of Beckner and Kendall is assured; the only thing to be determined is the size of their majority, which will be large enough to make the hearts of the Democrats of this district swell with just pride.—Kentucky Advocate.

Sometimes the Devil Gets On Top.

An 18-year-old jockey has been engaged for next year to ride for Gideon & Daly at a salary of $10,000, and a certain percentage of the winnings as perquisites, which will make his pay at least $25,000 a year. This is all right; but probably there are a thousand ministers in this country who are preaching for $200 a year with perquisites in the shape of a pair of yarn socks and a ham of meat, who are much happier. Things no doubt go contrary in this world and the devil most frequently gets on top.—Richmond Register.

Who Can He Be?

An old resident of Wolfe county told The Provler recently that when chestnuts are abundant the matrimonial fever is unusually rampant. As eight marriages were reported from his county last week, there must be some truth in the old mountaineer's prophecy.—Winchester Democrat.

HAZEL GREEN, KY.
THURSDAY, November 1, 1894.

As between personal friendship and party fealty your duty as a Democrat demands that you choose the latter when it comes to voting.

The man who scratches his ticket to vote for a Republican because he can thereby secure Republican patronage, swaps principle for pelf, and has no right to affiliate with the Democratic party.

The St. Louis Globe-Democrat, a rampant Republican organ, has the honesty to say editorially: "The business improvement is slow but it is sure." Right you are, and it will be quicker after the Democratic victory of next Tuesday.

When you go to the polls next Tuesday go with the determination to cast your ballot for the entire Democratic ticket, and thus give endorsement to the party which has and is struggling to better your condition by reforming the tariff.

Thrasher Combs will be elected by a very handsome majority, according to the good reports we are getting. He was here on Monday shaking hands with his friends, and when we say that we mean everybody, for no man has more of them than he.

We have received three or four issues of the Evening News, the new daily paper started by Fred Bassett and Hoffman Wood, at Mt. Sterling, and find them full of the latest news, which is served in the most tempting morsels. Citizens of that place should accord it a liberal support.

On the first page of this paper will be found a fac simile of the Democratic ticket, showing where you should place the cross-mark with the stencil, and if you vote that way your vote will in all the years to come be to you a happy remembrance. In the brighter days now dawning and the future full of promise you will find reward.

From county judge to constable the Democratic ticket presented to you this year is without a defect. Where can you find a better lot of men for the respective positions to which they aspire? Candidly you must admit that they are the peers of any you know. Then vote for the entire lot, not forgetting Beckner and Kendall, who head the ticket.

From every section of this broad land comes the glad tidings that times are getting better and better every day since tariff reform began to operate, and they will continue to grow brighter and brighter as the days go by. It is, therefore, important that every Democrat go to the polls next Tuesday and cast his ballot for the entire ticket. You will want to rejoice with the rest of us when the election is over, and to be fully prepared for that event you should vote the straight ticket next Tuesday. Every man on the Democratic ticket is entitled to and deserves your support, and you should freely accord it. Don't scratch!

Judge D. B. Redwine, of Jackson, was in the city from Saturday until Monday. Judge Redwine is a sure enough Democrat, standing squarely upon the platform flat-footed and for no other reason than that he knows the principles of the party are for the salvation of this country. He is making one of the best circuit judges of the state, and is a polite and courteous gentleman.—Mt. Sterling Advocate.

How any man can vote against G. T. Center is past our comprehension. In his prosperity every man in Wolfe county was benefited. When he had big contracts he employed hundreds of men and paid them good wages for their labor. Not only this, but in hundreds of ways he has demonstrated that he is the friend of the poor man. Vote for him Tuesday and get your neighbor to do likewise.

Personally we regard Judge Carson and Sam Henry Wilson, the Republican candidates for county judge and sheriff, respectively, as highly as we do any men in Wolfe county. They are as good citizens as the state can boast of. But they are not Democrats, and for that reason alone we can not accord to them our support. If you are a Democrat you will view the situation just as we do, and, looking only to the safety of your party, you will plant your vote under the rooster.

A careful review of the situation in each of the eleven congressional districts of Kentucky, furnished by reliable and well-informed special correspondents, shows the Democratic line of battle to be in good shape in all parts of the state. The Republicans began by boasting that they would capture several Democratic districts in November; they are ending by being seriously alarmed over the danger of losing the only Republican district in the state. They are making their hardest fight in the Third, Fifth, Ninth and Seventh districts, to say nothing of their family quarrel in the Eleventh. The present condition of affairs in each of these districts is encouraging to the Democrats, while the usual Democratic majorities will be given in the remaining districts.—Courier-Journal, Oct. 29.

When Daniel Webster, in his speech in the United States senate, July 25, 1846, uttered the following sentiments he doubtless had in mind the Democratic era of prosperity just now dawning. Mr. Webster said: "And, sir, take this great truth; place it on the title page of every book of political economy intended for the use of the United States; put it in every farmer's almanac; let it be the heading of the column of every mechanic's magazine; proclaim it everywhere, and make it a proverb, that where there is work for the hand of men, there will be work for their teeth. Where there is employment there will be bread. It is a great blessing to the poor to have cheap food, but greater than that, prior to that and of still higher value, is the blessing of being able to buy food, by honest and respectable employment. Employment feeds and clothes and instructs. Employment gives health, sobriety and morals. Constant employment and well-paid labor produce, in a country like ours, general prosperity, content and cheerfulness."

Pure blood is absolutely necessary in order to enjoy perfect health. Hood's Sarsaparilla purifies the blood and strengthens the system.

A. T. COMBS,
Wolfe County's Next Sheriff.

We are authorized to announce SAM HENRY WILSON as a candidate for sheriff of Wolfe county, subject only to the will of the people at the polls in November, 1894.

The many friends of Aunt Sally Trimble will regret to hear that she is quite ill and confined to her bed.

Everybody who wears clothes should call at J. T. Day's. He has a splendid stock, priced with the tariff off.

Joe Rose, of Stillwater, was in town Tuesday. He says his precinct will go Democratic by a good majority.

Arbury Brooks, who is teaching school in Powell county, was shaking hands with his many friends here this week.

J. H. Rose has bought a one-half interest in J. W. Cravens' undertaking business, and the firm name will be Cravens & Rose.

Henry Pieratt, Dr. John Taulbee and others attended the speaking at Campton Tuesday, Attorney-General Hendricks being the attraction.

John Cravens is carrying a boil on his left hand, and says the man who thinks "they are worth a dollar apiece," can have this one for half price.

Be sure and read the advertisement of the Louisville Tin and Stove Co., which appears in our paper today. They solicit orders from merchants especially.

J. A. Bassett has completed the plan for J. T. Day & Co.'s big wholesale grocery building. It will be built between the C. & O. and L. & N. tracks at Winchester, and will be four stories high.—Mt. Sterling News.

The latest news from Mrs. D. S. Godsey, now at Hot Springs, Ark., is to the effect that she is rapidly regaining her health and is well nigh cured of rheumatism. This will be glorious news to her many friends here.

Mrs. F. N. Day, who was visiting her sister Mrs. Horton, of Camargo, returned home Saturday evening. She says her two sons, Willie and Jimmie, who are at Spencer and Camargo, respectively, are doing well and looking well.

Mrs. John Pieratt and little son Troy, who were visiting Mrs. Pieratt's sister, Mrs. Clay Herndon, of Catlettsburg, last week and the week before, returned home Saturday. Troy was as much at home in the Big Sandy city as he, except that he didn't have his goat.

Henry Hord, of this place, left at our office on Tuesday three ears of corn grown by him that will average a foot in length and eight inches in circumference. It is a pure white variety, with large grain and small cob, and the ears are full to the end.

The 10th of this month will witness the transit of the planet Mercury across the sun, and the scientifically inclined small boy is already preparing his smoked glass to view the event, which can be seen from 10 o'clock in the morning until 4 in the afternoon.

Remember that James H. Swango and Rollin A. Kash will address the voters at Frenchburg, Thursday night, Nov. 1; Ezell, Friday, Nov. 2; Walnut Grove, Saturday, Nov. 3; Campton, Monday, Nov. 5. Speaking at 1 o'clock. Judge Amos Davis will be with them at Ezell.

Register G. B. Swango came up Saturday from Frankfort, and will remain here until after the election. There are no flies on Judge Swango's Democracy, and he never fails to be on hand to vote the ticket from "end to end." Every Democrat in Wolfe county should do likewise next Tuesday.

Gen. P. Watt Hardin, candidate for governor, is booked for a speech at this place this evening at 1 o'clock, and every man who wants to hear how well the Democratic party have kept the faith should go and hear him. Indeed, he is a speaker worth going miles to hear, and if you miss the treat you will regret it.

Calloway Howard and Noah Minix, of Magoffin county, deny the charges made against them by State Inspector Gardner in his recent report to the governor on land frauds in Magoffin county. They assert that Mr. Gardner was misled by political enemies of Mr. Minix, who desire to defeat Mr. Minix for re-election as sheriff.

The meeting in the Presbyterian church, last week, conducted by Rev. James Chisholm, of Winchester, closed Sunday night. Mr. Chisholm made many friends here, all of whom will be glad to see him come again. He was called home by the illness of his little boy, and left Monday morning, accompanied by Rev. James Little, who took him as far as Campton.

It was rumored here Wednesday that Swango springs, near here, have been leased to a gentleman of Mason county.

Hon. W. O. Mize last week returned from his trip to Coles county, Illinois, and reports all the former Kentuckians who located there as doing splendidly.

Wednesday Evening Prayer Meetings at Christian Church.

TOPICS—FOURTH QUARTER.

November 7.—Why accept Christ. I John 14:9. 14.—First principles. The place. Heb. 6:1. 21.—The Lord's promises. II Peter 3:10. 28.—Our relation to Christ. John 13:1, 10.

December 5.—Christian growth. II Peter 3:10. 12.—The Lord's Supper. Mark 14:22, 26. 19.—Self-deception. I John 1:5, 10. 26.—Knowing Christ. I John 2:3.

Every topic will be considered further at the regular church services, 11 o'clock a.m., on the Lord's day following its date in the prayer meeting.

Let us come to these meetings punctually, regularly, asking God's guidance and blessings, that we may not forsake the assembling of ourselves together; that we may speak one to another in psalms and hymns and spiritual songs, singing and making melody with our hearts to the Lord, that we may lay up in store for ourselves a good foundation against time to come; that we may lay hold on to the life which is life indeed.

Everybody invited to attend all these meetings. Wm. H. Corn.

W. A. McGuire, a well-known citizen of McKay, Ohio, is of the opinion that there is nothing as good for children troubled with colds or croup as Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. He has used it in his family for several years with the best results, and always keeps a bottle of it in the house. After having lagrippe he was himself troubled with a severe cough. He used other remedies without benefit, and then concluded to try the children's medicine, and to his delight it soon effected a permanent cure. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by John M. Rose.

ACADEMY NOTES.

When a person enrolls here he "sticks" unless he is not accustomed to hard study.

Some are out of school on account of whooping cough. There is no danger, as none of our pupils have it.

Our pupils (a part of them) are expecting a treat in the way of Democratic speeches to be delivered this week by Hon. P. Watt Hardin and Mr. H. L. Godsey.

Let it be understood that no one by the name of "Brown" has enrolled here this year, so that the report that the two "Brown" boys had enrolled and gone elsewhere is wholly false.

The teachers' association which convened here on Saturday last was decidedly the best we have attended in the mountains. All the teachers in the district were present except four. There were quite a number of visiting teachers, and citizens of the town and community present during the whole session; also several visitors in the town were in attendance. Every teacher but one of this magisterial district who was present was prepared and gave some interesting and profitable matter pertaining to his or her subject assigned. The papers read and the discussions were indeed commendable and worthy the thoughts and consideration of all teachers. Rev. Mr. Chisholm, of Winchester, was present, and gave an able address from the subject, "Shadows, or Unconscious Influence." The entire address was replete with things that should be heeded by every one. He was master of his subject and held his audience from the first sentence to the close. He showed clearly the power of the teacher's unconscious influence by his daily walks before his pupils, and by his general deportment both in school and out of school.

ELECTROPOISE.

SPECIAL OFFER.

The success of the Electropoise in curing disease of almost every form, and many patients beyond recovery, has caused a wide and growing demand for the "little doctor." Tumors, abscesses, scrofula, cancer, paralysis, chronic and acute rheumatism and neuralgia, many cases of female troubles, some cases of total and partial blindness, deafness, Bright's disease, kidney and bladder ailments have been cured in such a short while as to border on the miraculous. The treatment is simple and effective. Write for terms of rental and sale and special reasons why you should get one this month; also letters from well-known people testifying to its curative merit.

A Monster Sweet Potato.

The largest sweet potato ever raised in Accomac county was sent to the Landmark Saturday last. It weighed when dug 14 pounds 9 ounces. It was sent through Mrs. William Stark, of Berkley. It was raised by Mr. Edward Martin, of Sykes Island, and is a sort of Stamesco twin growth, one portion having been broken off after it was dug. It is hardly necessary to say that there were no other potatoes in the hill that produced this. It is well that it was putatively dug by reason of the high tide uncovering it or its weight would have increased several pounds. It is certainly no "small potato." It is, although "few in the hill."—Norfolk (Va.) Landmark.

The above fully verifies the statements made by the editor of this paper about the productiveness of "old Accomac," and which many of our friends have deemed extravagant.

WOLFE COUNTY.

Lane Locals.

Mrs. R. F. Hutton is visiting relatives in Morgan county this week.

Elizabeth Hutton has bought her fine saddle horse of J. P. Banks.

John L. Terrill and Andy Hollon have just returned from Bath county.

Miss Lizzie Miller went to the Flatwoods Saturday to gather chestnuts.

Henry L. Godsey is a fine speaker, but the boys at Lane say that Captain Hurst is too hard for him.

G. T. Center, G. S. Terrell, Frank Dun, William Hollon and David Rose are shaking hands with the boys at Lane.

Married, at the residence of the bride's father, Calvin King, on the 26th ult., Mr. V. Gibbs to Miss Francis King, Rev. G. W. Tyra officiating.

I go to the postoffice every Saturday for THE HERALD. I always like to read it so well, but last week I found something on the first page that struck me speechless.

The wife of Sewell Taulbee, who died in Jackson, Breathitt county, on the 20th of October, was brought here to be buried with her father and sister, who departed this life some years ago. She was the daughter of Nathan and Amanda Hollon, and was born and raised on Holly creek. She taught one session of school here before she married. She leaves many relatives and friends to mourn her loss.

G. T. J.

Spreading Spangles.

James Bertie, little son of T. K. Tutt, jr., is on the sick list this week.

Thos. K. Tutt, sr., and daughter Rosa, visited Maytown one day this week.

Mrs. Martha Spradling, of this place, visited her father, Rev. Isaac Murphy, of Grassy, one day last week.

Rev. Frank Creech and family have moved three miles below Clay City, where he takes charge of his work.

S. S. Shackelford and wife are visiting friends and relatives in this vicinity this week. We are always glad to see them.

Our school, which is being taught by Miss Lou Ellen Byrd, of Campton, is progressing finely, and we believe her to be one among the best teachers in the county.

Married, Oct. 25th, George Long, a son of John Andrew Long of Menifee, to the daughter of Mrs. Eliza Creach, of Laurel, this county. Rev. Marion Center officiated.

Miss Florence Crawford is visiting her sister, Miss Minerva Crawford, of Booneville, and will attend a winter school at Green Hill, after which she will return home.

John Phillips, of Grassy, was in our midst Sunday, and after hearing the girl of his choice had gone to Booneville to attend school he was greatly disappointed, and returned home with a sad countenance.

Politics and tariff reform are getting pretty hot among our Republican and Democratic friends, and the Republicans preach that the administration is responsible for everything mentionable, even to the drought, etc. Shame on a Democrat that will listen to such nonsense. We are all for Center for county judge and Combs for sheriff, and we have enough faith in our fellow Democrats to believe that they will walk up and cast their votes for the nominees. Hurrah for the Democratic party and THE HERALD. HYPHEN.

NOT IN A SENATOR'S LINE.

Gibson's Quotations From the Sermon On the Mount Filled His Gullet.

A few days ago it became necessary to file the will of the late Senator Gibson, of Louisiana, for probate in New York, says a writer in the Philadelphia Star. Its publication has caused a great deal of comment here, because of its simplicity and its high moral tone. After making several bequests to relatives and friends, he gives the residue of his estate to the Mountgromery, Tobias and Preston. He advised them that the only thing that is more difficult to build up than independent fortune is character, which is more easily lost, and the only safeguards of character are the ten commandments and the "Sermon on the Mount."

It is curious how few among our people in high official life can be found who have anything more than a thin and very superficial idea of what Christ said in the sermon on the mount. The great majority have not read it since their Sunday-school days. We have had declaimed at stated intervals in both houses of congress the Declaration of Independence, the farrow address of Washington, Patrick Henry's famous speech in behalf of liberty, excerpts from Jefferson's writings, Jackson's profanity, and Lincoln at Gettysburg, but never the sermon on the mount.

It is not often that men in politics and the newspaper business give such a matter a thought or concern. I will relate what may be called a curious coincidence that is appropos. A year or two before Senator Gibson died he was addressing the senate on the subject of the disturbed condition of the south, brought about by having the colored man in politics. He quoted extensively from the sermon on the mount in defense of the south. Jones, of Arkansas, was temporarily presiding. I was one of a group who were in close proximity to him. Leaning over toward us, he said: "Where does Gibson find those quotations he is using?"

"He gets them from the Bible," was the spontaneous answer that came from several of us.

"Oh, I know that," said Jones, "but from what particular section of the Bible?"

None of us could answer positively. I walked over to Senator Hoar, the book authority of the body, and put the query to him. He gave me the correct information. Jones said it annoyed him that he could not remember the fact. He then asked for a copy of the Bible. When it was brought none of us could say where in the book the sermon could be found.

A Great Work in Hand.

Kentucky has nearly 10,000,000 acres of unimproved farming lands, and many more millions that have been abused by bad farming and then practically abandoned by bad farmers. How to get good farmers to come in, restore the one and improve the other is the prime problem the immigration convention now sitting in this city will attempt to solve. It is an occasion and a theme that call for sound judgment, united effort, systematic procedure and practical ways and means. May the many representative delegates from all parts of the state and every occupation, who gathered at the board of trade, have the wisdom to find the way to that which they seek. If he who makes two blades of grass grow where one grew before is a benefactor, much more is he a benefactor who makes the wilderness or a barren place blossom into potato patches and cornfields.—Louisville Times.

Democrats, Read This.

Last spring, under the McKinley tariff, wool sold for 15 cents and less. Now it brings from 20 to 22 cents. A 50-pound suit of clothes would then have cost $7.50. Now a 50-pound suit would be $10. When we take into consideration the cheapening of coal under the Wilson bill, we find that we can buy nearly twice as much clothing with a given amount of wool as we could last spring under the McKinley bill. In the light of recent facts, the wool argument has been dropped by well posted Republicans.—Winchester Democrat.

An Old Picture of Ben Hardin.

Hon. J. Proctor Knott, while rummaging around the city of Frankfort, accidentally came across a crayon portrait of Ben Hardin, one of Kentucky's greatest men. The picture shows the effects of age, its edges being ragged and torn, but the face is entire and can be easily reproduced. This is said to be the only authentic picture of Hardin in existence, and Gov. Knott prizes it very highly. The education is of such a superb character—the expression being so natural and the picture so good in general detail—that it was evidently done by no amateur hand, and it is believed to have been done by Joubert. Edward Fox will reproduce the picture in life size.—Danville Advocate.

The Greatest Jayhawker Withdraws.

The Hon. John D. White, of Clay county, who has been croaking so much trouble in the Republican ranks by his injunction against Colson and Adams, candidates for congress in the Eleventh district, announced his withdrawal from the race at London Oct. 24. Persons who pretend to know all about White's business say that White never intended to be a candidate, but had other objects in view. His withdrawal leaves Adams as the stronger candidate, but a movement is on foot to get him to withdraw, in order to insure a Republican congressman from that district. White says he will stump the district exposing the trickery used in nominating Colson.

Stand By Your Party, Democrats.

The Wool and Cotton Reporter, the organ of those two industries in the United States, reports in its last issue the erection of forty new mills, the enlargement of seventy-three old mills and ninety-six mills starting up. Free wool has caused a change from idleness to activity and in so doing has increased the demand and the demand has increased the price of domestic wools. "A pound of fact is worth a carload of theory," says the Georgetown News-Democrat. "The Democratic party is right and every Democratic voter should stand by it to the last. Every man who has affiliated with it heretofore should go to the polls and vote for it this year. Before a year rolls around it will be the proudest vote of his life."

Natural Gas.

The flow of natural gas that was discovered on the farm of Col. P. J. Harbison, near Parksville, is still the subject of considerable talk in that neighborhood. The gas continues to flow from the well in a strong volume, and when it is ignited the flame shoots high in the air. Mr. Brown, the manager of the Danville gas works, who has had some experience in the natural gas fields of Indiana, will go down to the Harbison farm and make a test of the flow and quality of the gas. While it is very probable that the gas struck is from a "pocket," and will soon be exhausted, still the many friends of the owner of the property would like very much to see it develop into something permanent.—Kentucky Advocate.

Found After Twenty Years.

For the last 20 years E. F. Stapley, a wealthy resident of London, England, has been looking for his brother, James Stapley. He advertised widely for him and engaged detectives to aid him in the search. Recently Mr. Stapley sent his two step-sons to this country to continue the quest. They inserted advertisements in newspapers and notified the police of all the largest cities in this country. After a short search chief of police Spears located Stapley in Kansas City. He is sick and poor, and for some time has made his home with W. W. Taylor, a contractor. Mr. Stapley will return to England and live with his brother.

"OUR NEXT SENATOR,"

Was the Way in Which Col. Breckinridge Was Introduced at Winchester.

On the 22nd ult., county court day at Winchester, there was a very large crowd present, most of them to hear Colonel Breckinridge speak. The Colonel has always had a strong following in Clark county. In 1884, when he announced himself a candidate for Congress, a petition of over a thousand leading citizens was signed, praying the legislature to put Clark county back into the 7th district so they could vote for him. The petition was carried to Frankfort by Squire James Corn, John Prewitt and E. Wheeler, all now dead, and other prominent citizens, and from that time to this the people of Clark have apparently been steadfast in their admiration for Colonel Breckinridge.

The noted congressman came up on the noon train from Lexington, and was met at the depot with a carriage by Capt. B. A. Tracy, ex-Mayor John Garner and Col. Sam Ewalt. From the depot to the Central hotel, where he took dinner, the Colonel was cheered by the crowds on the streets. At half-past one he commenced his speech. The opera-house was densely crowded, and when no more could get in the door was shut, but it was broken in by the crowd pressing for admittance. Hundreds had to go away, being unable to enter. Captain Tracy presented the speaker to the audience, and a storm of cheers went up when he referred to him as "our next United States senator."

Colonel Breckinridge commenced his speech by complimenting Hon. Rodney Haggard, Democratic candidate for county judge, whom he declared to be an excellent man and lawyer, a brave ex-Confederate soldier of Cluke's regiment, and every way worthy of their support. He also had a good word for the other candidates on the county ticket. He spoke in praise of Hon. W. M. Beckner and Hon. Joe Kendall, short and long term candidates for congress in the 10th district. He then discussed the action of the last congress on the tariff, Sherman purchase law, taxation of greenbacks, pensions and Federal election law. The speech occupied about an hour and a half. It was frequently applauded, and at its close a large number of old army comrades and friends pressed forward to shake hands with the Colonel.

The cheering when Capt. Tracy alluded to Col. Breckinridge as the next United States senator was significant, coming on the heels of the action taken at Martinsburg, Elliott county, when he spoke. The largest crowd ever seen in Martinsburg was present, the throng coming from seven or eight different counties, many of them traveling fifty or sixty miles to hear the speech. The Colonel was greeted with great enthusiasm during his speech. After Colonel Breckinridge left the stand resolutions were drawn up and read calling upon the next representative in the legislature from Elliott and Carter counties, whoever he may be, to use all honorable means to secure the election of Col. Breckinridge for United States senator.

Undertakers Kept Busy.

An awful and death-dealing disease in the form of diphtheria is raging opposite Caseyville, in Illinois, and coffins can hardly be furnished fast enough with which to bury the dead. No fewer than 40 deaths have occurred within the week, and it is not uncommon to bury two children in one coffin. A man from across the river arrived at Caseyville for the fifth coffin furnished to one family.

The plague has now crossed the Ohio and is epidemic at Caseyville and Mulfordtown, having been brought thither by families from Illinois fleeing from its ravages. A number of dangerous cases are developing there and all the schools have closed. The community is in a general state of alarm. Among the few recoveries noted, the victims have been left blind or paralyzed, similar to the sequel of the spotted fever plague, which swept over portions of Webster county several years ago. A number of physicians elsewhere have been called to assist in combating the disease, the local doctors thus far having been powerless to arrest the epidemic.

Now is the time to subscribe.

ORATORY IN WEST VIRGINIA.

Hons. Wm. L. Wilson and Bourke Cockran Speak at Wheeling.

The reception of Hons. William L. Wilson and Bourke Cockran in Wheeling, West Va., on the 24th ult., surpassed anything heretofore witnessed in Wheeling, considering that the affair was in the nature of an impromptu meeting, only having been advertised three days in advance. Long before the arrival of the train the streets in the neighborhood of the two opera houses where they were to speak were impassable.

Wm. L. Wilson made a remarkable speech at the Grand opera house to an audience crowded to suffocation. The streets in front of the building were packed for a long time after the speaking commenced. At the conclusion of Mr. Wilson's address, Judge Cowan, of Baltimore, spoke.

During the speaking at the Grand, Bourke Cockran was speaking to an immense crowd at the opera house, one block away. The building was filled to its utmost capacity, probably two thousand people standing or sitting within its walls. Three times as many people remained on the outside of the building clamoring for admittance. At the conclusion of Mr. Cockran's speech, Mr. Wilson was introduced, and addressed the audience about fifteen minutes. He was very tired, and made his address very short. The entire party left for Parkersburg the following morning on a special train for a tour of the state. The party consists of the Hon. Wm. L. Wilson, Hon. Bourke Cockran, Hon. John T. McGraw, Judge Cowan, Senator Camden, and probably Hon. Champ Clark.

Natural Gas at West Point.

West Point, Ky., is having a natural gas boom. The gas is now being brought to the surface by the Treese Bros., of Pennsylvania, have been drilling several wells there this season, with entirely satisfactory results. The well at W. T. Smith's brickyard, half a mile from the station, is capable of sustaining forty fires, and its capacity increases. Mr. Smith will use it to fire his brick kilns. The well at the hotel opposite the depot, besides heating and lighting the hotel and eight other houses, has an escape which, being burned on the street corner at night, lights several squares. Another well at the end of High street lights and heats several cottages. Other wells will be sunk as soon as the Treese Bros., who are busy elsewhere, can return.

The interesting feature about the natural gas here is its nearness to the surface, 275 to 400 feet, as compared with 1,000 to 1,500 feet in Ohio and other gas regions, and there seems to be plenty of it to be had for the boring, the contractors assuring wells of from twenty to forty feet capacity in each town lot at a cost of $300 each. The abundance of this safe, cheap and convenient heating and lighting medium, added to the fine railroad and river transportation facilities, have attracted the attention of persons who are contemplating the location of a glass factory near here.—Cor. Courier-Journal.

Colored People Excited.

The negro population of College Hill, a village four miles from Waco, Ky., is greatly excited over the miraculous performances of a colored female evangelist named Julia Brooke, who is holding a big revival near there. She claims to be one of the Lord's "sanctified," and as an evidence of His "saving grace," is healing the palsied and raising the sick from their beds, all of which she accomplishes through prayer and the laying on of hands. A 3-year old child of Rubie Stone, whom the local physicians had given up, has been raised by her, and other cures almost as remarkable are reported.

Pause and Think, Before You Poke Fun.

A newspaper man who has seen some of the ups and downs of life, thus discourses: "Don't make fun of a boy whose clothes don't fit. In five years his clothes may be tailor-made while yours are second-hand. Don't make fun of a poor girl, for in a short time she may be the happy wife of some man of brains and a bank account, while you may be glad to clerk for her husband and sleep in the attic."

THE TENTH DISTRICT.

It Will Have the Honor of Electing Two Democratic Representatives.

In this congressional district both parties are well organized, which augurs well for Democratic success. The district has been thoroughly canvassed by such Democratic orators as Senator Blackburn, Gen. P. W. Hardin, Col. W. C. P. Breckinridge, Hon. C. M. Clay and Hon. W. J. Hendrick, and by Col. W. O. Bradley and Woody Dunlap and other Republicans, while the Democratic candidates for congress, Beckner and Kendall, and local Democratic speakers and candidates—the Republican candidates, Bosley and Hopkins, and others for the Republicans—have stamped the voting precincts and school districts according to the principles of their party. The district is Democratic, and such a canvass will bring out the votes and insure a Democratic victory. If there are any disappointed seekers after Federal offices in the district they are making no noise, and, of course, Beckner and Kendall are in no sense responsible for the failure of the boys to get all the offices at Washington.

More campaign literature has been distributed than ever before. K. J. Hampton, chairman of the Republican district committee, who is the business partner of John Bosley, the Republican candidate for the short term, in publishing the Winchester Sun, the official paper organ of the district, has received 300 pounds of political literature from the American protective tariff league association, but the people of this district are not benefited by protection, and Hampton's literature has made but few converts. The Democratic committee has mailed to 5,000 voters in the district an appeal showing that the last congress faithfully fulfilled the pledges of the Chicago convention, and that all its action was in the interest of just such people as live in the 10th congressional district.

The Democrats have placed exceptionally strong men on their tickets for county offices. Judge Beckner is exceedingly strong with the masses and will receive largely more than a strict party vote. The leading Republicans knew his strength and were supposed to ruin a candidate against him, hoping by throwing their whole strength against Kendall, to be able to defeat him. But "Little Joe" Kendall is a "buster," and can see more men in a week than any half-dozen other men. Such qualities are very effective in this district, and for every "hard-shell" Baptist Democrat who strays off after Bro. Hopkins, Kendall will receive the support of two young Republicans, for he is the idol of the young men of the district, regardless of political affiliations.

Recent advices from the Sandy valley show that the Democratic situation there has improved 30 per cent. In the last two weeks. While Bro. Hopkins has been preaching in this end of the district, Kendall and Beckner have been arousing the Democrats in the eastern part. Hon. Albert Stevens, who was Kendall's chief opponent for the nomination in that portion of the district, has been doing effective work for the Democratic ticket.

Judge M. C. Lisle, who was comparatively unknown, carried the district by 2,772, and while it is not expected that so large a vote will be cast as was cast in the national election of 1892, the district can be relied upon to give Kendall and Beckner from 2,000 to 2,500 majority. The Republicans concede Beckner's election by 1,000, but they will find that Kendall will not fall behind him.

In this county both parties have perfect organizations. The Republicans, led by their candidate for county attorney, Edward Kirby Smith Clinkenbeard, an attorney, a tinker and a tailor, and a recent convert from Democracy, are speaking every day at the principal points in the county, while the Democrats, headed by Senator Rodney Haggard, their candidate for county judge, and one of the best organizers in the state; Mayor John E. Garner, D. H. Goyen, the "patriot-orator" of Kentucky, Captain B. A. Tracy and others have been speaking in the county every night, and will continue until the day of election. A hot fight in this county always results in an increased Democratic majority, and this time it will not be less than 500.

Judge J. M. Benton, chairman of the congressional campaign committee, and who is in constant and close communication with all parts of the district, makes the following estimates: Democrats, 5,000; Republicans, 4,000; Clark, 250; Elliott, 500; Floyd, 300; Knox, 250; Montgomery, 250; Morgan, 500; Menefee, 200; Pike, 150; Powell, 125; Wolfe, 200; total, 3,425. The Republicans will carry Eastly by 125; Johnson, 500; Lee, 50; Martin, 250, and Magoffin, 200; total,

1,125, thus leaving a net Democratic majority of 2,300. These estimates are conservative, and it is believed are justified by the existing state of affairs.—Winchester correspondence Courier-Journal.

LEE COUNTY.

Fineastie Fatalities.

Mrs. Sam Plummer, who was last week reported as sick, is now thought to be a little better.

The election in this county seems to be getting very warm, judging from the number of candidates riding around. We met our old friend Kelsie Couch, from Morgan. He and his mother are visiting John H. Plummer at Tallega. Arch Hyden, the engineer at Spencer saw mill, has moved his family to Miller's creek, where he takes charge of a saw mill.

Bro. J. T. Piaratt, of Hazel Green, and Bro. Miller, from Caneyville, and Powell, preached at Pine Hill Sunday in a large audience.

Miss Lizzie McEwin and sister Carrie, formerly from Winchester, but now teaching the public school in Proctor, are visiting Miss Laura Curry at this place. There was preaching Sunday at the Cable school-house, and as usual a large crowd present. The new converts reported last week had their names enrolled on the church book at that place. Steve Stamper, the county attorney for Lee, has just returned from a visit to friends and relatives in Missouri. He was quite sick when he returned, and is now reported to be dangerously ill with pneumonia.

The series of meetings conducted by Bro. Morris, reported last week, still continues, with marked success. From his success up to this time he may very appropriately be styled the Jack Howard of Lee county.

Miss Nannie Hoard gives her pupils the advantage of a spelling match on Wednesday night of each week. This is a wise step. Teachers should not hesitate to do everything possible to advance their pupils. Our experience has been that much good can be accomplished by spelling matches.

Uncle Buck Gunn, one of the oldest citizens of Walker's creek, has been ill in health for some time, but we are glad to see him out again. Uncle Buck has been an old river hand for many years. We were amused when he told us the following: Thirty years ago, when he had run a coal boat down the Kentucky river to Frankfort, and at that time they had no better way to get home than to walk, when he sold his coal, tired and worn out from his journey. He remarked that he would live to see the time that he could ride home on the train. He has now lived to see his prediction of the future development of his country verified, for now the Lexington and Eastern runs by his door.

Our citizens to the number of two or three hundred gathered on the burnt district here on last Monday afternoon at two o'clock, to witness the exhibition made by the Cincinnati Tin and Japan Fire Extinguisher Co. The test was given under the personal supervision of Mr. Herman B. Wells, president of the company, of Cincinnati, and Mr. W. V. Snyder, the local agent, of Georgetown, Ohio, and was satisfactory in every respect, clearly demonstrating the Stemple Extinguisher to be one of the best methods yet devised or invented for the controlling of fire.

A structure of pine boards was built, and after being thoroughly saturated with coal-oil, a match was applied. The fire broke out in about ten seconds. All who witnessed the test were thoroughly satisfied that the Stemple will do all and more than is claimed for it. The headquarters of the company are S. E. Cor. Sycamore and Canal Sts., Cincinnati.—Winchester (Ohio) Herald.

SPENCE COOPER, Hazel Green, Ky., Agent for Wolfe and Morgan counties.

A qualified voter must live in the state one year, six months in the county and sixty days in the precinct. The officers of the election should look to these matters, as well as all others that they are expected to look after on Tuesday next.

Henry Wilson, postmaster at Welshton, Florida, says he cured a case of diarrhoea of long standing in six months with one small bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. What a pleasant surprise that must have been to the sufferer. Such cures are not unusual with this remedy. In many instances only one or two doses are required to give permanent relief. It can always be depended upon. When reduced with water it is pleasant to take. For sale by John M. Rose.

Hon. William L. Wilson, of West Virginia, is confident of victory. The trusts are pouring both money and speakers into his district, but Mr. Wilson believes that he has victory within his grasp. If he wins against the efforts of the monopolists it will be a grand victory.

Terrible Misery

Helpless With Rheumatism and Without Appetite

Tired Feeling and Pains Dispelled by Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"I was in terrible misery with rheumatism in my hips and lower limbs. I read so much about Hood's Sarsaparilla that I thought I would try it and see if it would relieve me. When I commenced I could not sit up nor even turn over in bed without pain. One bottle of Hood's Relieved Me so much that I was soon out of bed and could walk. I had also felt weak and tired all the time; could not sleep, and obtained no littlerest at night that I felt all worn out in the morning. I had no appetite to eat anything but Hood's Sarsaparilla restored my appetite so that I could eat without any distress, and I have gained rapidly in strength. I have taken five bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla and I am as well as ever." Mrs. S. A. Lefebvre, Rossmore, O.
